Berlin Denies Germany Aims at Americas In Drive for Colonies

NAZIS BRAND BARUCH CLAIM 'PROPAGANDA'

Blasts At Financier's View That Reich Plans March On South America.

AMBASSADORS DEPART

Brazil Withdraws Envoy From Reich and Germany Follows Suit.

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—Germany has no territorial aims in the Americas, it was officially contended today in a stinging criticism of statements made by Bernard Baruch, United States financier.

The foreign office, through its organ, diplomatic correspondence, again linked Baruch to "cliques that propagate war," and denied his statement, made on a return from Europe, that the reich is moving into South America.

Ambassadors Leave.

A rupture in Brazilian-German diplomatic relations, in which Brazil withdrew its ambassador from the reich and Germany followed suit, coincided with the foreign office blast.

Germany warned that war-seekers must be watched by the authoritarian countries and the masses in their own countries.

"Germany has always maintained the viewpoint that every country is responsible for its own armaments, and should decide upon that matter for itself," said diplomatic correspondence, commenting on the fact that Baruch told President Roosevelt that America lacked preparedness.

"This, however, does not mean that persons claiming a certain amount of responsibility are entitled to use calumnies as the foundation of aims which are apt to affect the honor of Germany, and which are obviously intended to inflict harm on Germany's interests.

Both Have Trade Interests.

"Of course, Germany has trade interests in the Americas, just as the United States has interests in Europe.

"But just as the United States, as may well be assumed, has no teritorial or other imperialistic intentions regarding Europe, the same is the case with Germany regarding the Americas."

Directing its attack straight upon Baruch, the foreign office publication continued:

"Baruch's accusations are along the same lines as the efforts of that clique to propagate war which is to be found in England."

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A three-member sub-committee of the federal communications commission, it was learned today, has voted in favor of discontinuing super-power broadcasts by station WLW at Cincinnati. The subcommittee's recommendation must be passed upon by the full commission of seven members.

RICHMOND, Ind.—(AP)—Bob McDaniels and Rus Morris, 24-year-old Richmond aviator, passed the halfway mark today of their effort to set a new world's endurance record for light airplanes. The two are trying to stay in the air 150 hours and better the present unofficial record of 106 hours.

FT. LEAVENWORTH, Kan. —(INS)—Maj. John H. Gardner, 42, a student in the army command and general staff school, was killed at Sherman field today as he was about to start on an airplane flight to Nashville, Tenn. None of his fellow officers saw the accident, but it was believed that he was struck by the propeller of another plane.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Gov. Martin L. Davey and two state officials, answering a suit to compel them to make changes in the administration of old age pensions, contended today that they were not required to comply with provisions of the federal social security act.

HONG KONG —(AP)— Japanese troops were reported today to have captured Waichow, only 70 miles east of Canton, after smashing through more than 80 villages in their new South China drive from Bias bay.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Setting an all-time record for the eight consecutive week, WPA rolls rocketed to 3,129,163 for the week ending Oct. 1, WPA officials announced today. This figure represents an increase of 8,802 enrollees over the week ending Sept. 24.

Five Ballots To Be Given City Voters

15 Separate Questions, Issues In All, Up for Verdict In County.

Mansfield and Richland county voters will receive from four to six ballots when they go to the polls at the Nov. 8 election, the county board of elections announced today. A total of 15 separate ballots, representing three proposed tax levies, two bond issues, four other amendments or proposals, and six on local option in addition to two regular party ballots, will be used in the city and county.

Voters in Springfield and Cass townships, where local option issues on the sale of beer and liquor will be submitted, will have six ballots to mark, more than any other county district.

* * *

Mansfielders will be handed five ballots. They will include the large two-party ballot with the names of candidates, the judicial ballot, a third for the proposed half-mill levy for care of tuberculosis patients, another on the proposed amendment to the state constitution for the appointment of judges, and one on the establishing of a public parks commission in the city.

All precincts in the city and county will receive at least four ballots. They are the large party and judicial ballots, one on the proposed constitutional amendment providing for the appointment of judges by a non-partisan board, and another for the tuberculosis levy.

* * *

In Cass and Springfield townships the ballot on the proposed parks commission will be replaced by two others on the sale of beer and hard liquor. Otherwise, voters in those districts will mark the same tickets as Mansfield electors.

The Union Rural school district north of Mansfield will vote on a proposed $75,000 bond issue for a new school building, and in Butler township electors will pass on a bond proposal to provide $14,000 for the construction of township house. Both bond proposals were defeated by small margins at previous elections.

* * *

In addition to the county-wide levy for funds to treat tuberculosis patients, Troy township and Bellville will vote on operating levies.

At Bellville, the levy, if approved, will call for an additional three mills for three years, while the Troy township proposal calls for six-tenths of a mill for two years.

ROOSEVELT TO ASK HUGE FUND FOR SECURITY

President to Request Program So Strong That Invaders Dare Not Attack.

MOMENTOUS MESSAGE

Statements to Congress Will Seek Greatest Peace-Time Armament Plan.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt will send to congress, when it convenes in January, the most momentous national defense message since Woodrow Wilson, 22 years ago, told the nation it must go to war.

The president's message will be one of peace, but of a peace and security that, in a world where nations are armed to the teeth, he and his advisers are convinced can be assured only by military strength.

Would Keep Hands Off.

He will tell congress and the American people that billions must be spent to make the United States so strong that no foreign power, or combination of powers, would dare attack it.

The president, it was predicted in authoritative circles, is expected to ask congress for a minimum defense budget of $1,500,000,000 for next year. The sum, it was conceded, might even exceed this figure, the largest by many hundreds of millions of any national defense appropriation in peacetime.

The president's defense message is expected to contain an ominous warning that this world's wealthiest nation, can no longer depend upon its geographical isolation for safety—that it is urgently and immediately necessary to give not only the navy, but the air corps and army as well, the modern equipment and trained men they would need to go to war overnight to defend the western hemisphere from attack.

Can't Count on Aid.

The administration is convinced, it was learned, that the United States will not be able to count in a future emergency on other nations, as in the World war, to hold off an attacker while it leisurely turns the nation from peacetime pursuits to those of war.

This is one of the startling lessons learned from the recent German Czecho crisis when it watched

Turf to Fly as Gridiron Powerhouses Clash Today

Champions Not Due Yet but Many Titular Ambitions Face Test Today; Buckeyes at Northwestern.

The pushover season in football is over and the powerhouses get down to business with one another today.

The champions, of course, won't emerge from the pack for another month or more, but today's games, everywhere from the "Ivy league" in the east to the Pacific Coast conference, can do a lot toward eliminating teams that don't measure up to titular standards.

In the major "leagues," organized or otherwise, the schedule shows such battles as unbeaten Dartmouth and Brown, Columbia and Colgate, Army and Harvard, Cornell and Syracuse, another undefeated pair; Princeton and Pennsylvana and Yale and Navy in the east.

Minnesota and Michigan, battling for the Big Ten pinnacle as well as the little Brown Jug," and Ohio State and Northwestern top the Western conference championship struggles.

Down south Alabama and Tennessee meet hand to hand to settle current supremacy. Texas A. & M. and Texas Christian, ranking Southwest conference powers, come together while Arkansas and Texas hook up.

Oregon, current leader of the Pacific Coast loop, plays Stanford, and California and U. C. L. A., both important title contenders, come together.

The chief schoolboy attraction in these parts today as far as Mansfielders are concerned involves Mansfield's Tygers and Sandusky in the latter city. A crowd of 9,000 is anticipated for the game in which the Tygers seek their first victory over the Blue Streaks in four years.

Roosevelt to See Musical Comedy

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt arranged to see a musical comedy tonight, attending the theater for the second time since he has been in the White House.

The play is "Knickerbocker Holiday," now showing at the National theater here. Walter Huston has the main part—that of Peter Stuyvesant, an early governor of New York.

OFF ON FLIGHT

Papana, Stunt Flier, Leaves On 1st Leg of Ocean Hop.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Alexander Papana, one of the world's foremost stunt fliers, took off from Floyd Bennett field today for Miami, first leg of a flight to Bucharest, Rumania, by way of the South Atlantic.

Accompanying him was Max Constant, Burbank, Calif., flier and former movie writer.

Papana has encountered many troubles in the last two years in trying to arrange a North Atlantic flight to Bucharest.

His wife, Diana, died on the closing day of the national air races at Cleveland, last month.

Married In 1867, Couple Observes 71st Anniversary

The amazing marital record of one Mansfield couple reached another milestone today as Mr. and Mrs. John D. Lewis, 78 Wood street, celebrated their 71st wedding anniversary.

They passed the day quietly although the Lewis home, as it is on all these occasions, was filled with children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren as well as neighbors and friends who called on the aged couple to extend them their best wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis were married Oct. 15, 1867, by the Rev. John Fiery, pastor of First Lutheran church, at the farm home of the bride, north of Mansfield. Their wedding trip was a visit with relatives in Galion.

Mrs. Lewis is 88 and Mr. Lewis is 92, and considering their ages they are in good health. Her eyesight is impaired now and she is no longer able to read. Her greatest enjoyment comes from the radio.

ORDERS RELIEF FUND RETURNED

Ferguson Says $7,500 Given to 'Chiselers' In Five Cities.

COLUMBUS —(AP)—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson today ordered findings for recovery of $7,500 against persons he said had been "chiseling" relief in Cleveland, Akron, Canton, Toledo and Columbus.

Ferguson said the order was based on a report by state examiners that 37 per cent of the 4,616 relief cases investigated in the five cities were undeserving of aid.

The whereabouts of another 2 per cent listed on relief rolls, were said to be unknown.

HUNTER INJURED

Marion Youth's Arm Shattered In Quest For Ducks.

BELLEFONTAINE—(U.P.)—Harold Kern, 18, of Marion, was in serious condition in the hospital here as the result of a hunting accident less than an hour after the duck hunting season opened today.

Kern and another Marion hunter were leaving Turkey Foot landing, Indian Lake, in a boat. Kern saw a flock of ducks and reached for his gun in the bottom of the boat. It discharged accidentally, shattering his left arm.

KILLED IN BED

Ohio Farmer Slain, Deputies Search For Relative.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Deputy sheriffs today sought a youth who invaded the bedroom of Finley Fry, 41, farmer who lived one mile west of Patalaska, and fatally wounded Fry with a shotgun

Fry's wife was in the room and four children slept in an adjoining room.

GIRL, 22, SLAIN

Shot Down as She and Friends Return From Dance.

RAUBSVILLE, Pa.—(AP)—Miss Hazel May Cronce, 22, of Frenchtown, N. J., was shot to death early today in what Russell Hahn, chief of Northampton county detectives, said was a quarrel with a man who recently had paid her attentions.

The shooting occurred on the Delaware river road, near here, as Miss Cronce and four companions were returning home from a dance.

HUNT GIRL, 8

Cleveland Police Search For Pupil Missing 24 Hours.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— Authorities combed the brush-filled gullies of three east side parks today in the search for eight-year-old Betty Ann Rowland, missing since she left her school at Notre Dame Academy Friday afternoon.

An all-night check of homes of Betty's classmates failed to reveal her whereabouts.

Last person known to have seen the girl was Mrs. Nathan Baverman who saw Betty playing in the school corridors about 3:50 p. m. Mrs. Baverman was leaving the building with her own daughter, Marion, 8, at classmate of the missing child.

The usually prompt Betty was told yesterday by her aunt, Miss Helen Murray, to stay at the school until 4 p. m. Miss Murray planned to hunt a job and did not expect to return home until that hour.

GO ON OFFENSE, G. O. P. URGED

Supreme Court Judges Tells 500 at County Rally It's Better Than Any Defense.

Plan an offense—it's better than any line of defense you can build, Supreme Court Judge Edward S. Matthias told 500 Richland county Republican workers following a dinner last night at the Republican headquarters.

Judge Matthias called for a systematic organization of the county's Republican organization that "will lead to victory on Nov. 8."

"You have a platform—you have leaders, and you have a ticket to be proud of," he asserted.

A member of the Ohio supreme court since 1915, Judge Matthias is seeking re-election.

Attending the dinner were precinct and ward leaders from all sections of the county.

Other candidates who spoke briefly were Earl Griffith of Mt. Gilead, candidate for secretary of state; P. H. Rogers, Lorain county representative to the general assembly and candidate for state senator; Harry H. Maxwell, candidate for Richland county representative and John C. Friday, candidate to the board of county commissioners.

Atty. Stuart Cramer acted as chairman at the meeting at which Ralph C. Hardy, Richland county Republican executive committee chairman and John Hess, chairman of the Richland county central committee were introduced.

DIES IN PLUNGE

Elderly Man Falls 60 Feet From Cleveland Building.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—Still unidentified today was the body of an elderly man who ended his life by plunging 60 feet from the fourth floor to the ground level of the Arcade building here.

In his pockets were a key, 67 cents and an unsigned note, which read: "Bill—I am sorry to do this but I am down and out again. Thanks for being kind to me."

STEEL OUTPUT AT 57 PER CENT

Youngstown District to Reach New High for Year.

YOUNGSTOWN — (U.P.) — Steel output in the Youngstown district next week will hit 57 per cent of capacity, another new high for the year and continuing the almost unbroken week-to-week advance since early summer.

Output reached 55 per cent at the end of this week as Republic Steel corporation's open hearth plant resumed here Friday after a five-day shutdown due to necessary changes in its blooming mill plant. The plant will add another open hearth today and a seventh next week.

Carnegie Illinois Steel Corp., with 14 of its 15 open hearths operating at the Ohio Works plant, also stepped up production.

TRAFFIC KILLS 9

Ohioans Die In Auto Mishaps, Grade Crossing Accidents.

(By Associated Press)

Nine Ohioans were killed yesterday in accidents involving automobiles while another met death under a passenger train.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Perry of Akron and their granddaughter, Betty Miller, 11, were killed when an automobile driven by Mrs. Perry was struck by a Pennsylvania railroad passenger train at Clinton, near Akron.

Norvin Johnson, 14-year-old Troy youth, was struck by a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train as he walked on a trestle.

Pedestrians fatally injured by automobiles were Wilbert Bylow, 8, and John Hattersley, 53, of Toledo, Jacob Settles, 74, of Zanesville, Arthur Breakall, 29, of Dayton, Dr. John L. Carithers, 72, Cleveland dentist, and Miss Alice Wright, 34, Berea children's home house mother.

OFF FOR REST

Mayor and Wife Leave Today For Vacation Trip Through South.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter, accompanied by Mrs. Hunter, left today for Florida where he will spend a two weeks vacation. They will drive to Tampa where they will spend several days with relatives. Later the mayor plans to visit other relatives in St. Cloud before returning to Mansfield Oct. 30.

Hunter said that he intended to spend tomorrow at Norris dam and Lookout mountain in Tennessee before continuing to Atlanta, Ga.

LAUNCHES DRIVE

Roosevelt Opens 25th Campaign For Community Chests.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The nation's 25th community mobilization for human needs began today.

President Roosevelt opened the annual campaign for contributions to Community Chests by telling the nation in a broadcast address last night that there was as great a need as ever for volunteer relief and welfare agencies, despite the federal government's efforts along that line.

JAIL SUSPECT IN BRICK SLAYING

Zanesville Police Make Arrest in Columbus Killing.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—City Detective Charles Cole said today that Norman Jones, 27, colored, had been arrested in Zanesville on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Howard Crossman, 43, who was hit on the head with a brick.

Cole said Crossman was felled Aug. 18 by a brick hurled by one of three men he upbraided for shooting an air gun at a dog. Crossman died of tetanus about a week later.

Zanesville police also held a companion of Jones for questioning.

PUMPER ARRIVES

New Streamlined Fire Truck Gets 6-Hour Test Tuesday.

Mansfielders who were up around Central fire station in the city building today got their first look at the city's streamlined pumper that was delivered this morning.

The new truck, equipped with a cab was driven here from the factory at Allentown, Pa., by representatives of the Mack-International Motor Truck corporation from which it was purchased. Tuesday the new pumper will be taken to North lake where it will undergo the Fire Underwriters six-hour pumping test before being placed in service.

TAKE RECESS

Jurors to Resume Spy Case Trial In N. Y. Monday.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Jurors chosen for the trial of three alleged members of a Nazi spy ring were released today for the weekend without even the customary instructions to refrain from discussing the case or reading about it in newspapers.

So little was known of the nature of the government's evidence, gathered by the department of justice and agents of United States Attorney Lamar Hardy, that Judge John C. Knox said it was "not necessary to lock the jury up" He advised them only not to be biased by any speculation they might read in newspapers.

The trial will be resumed Monday morning. When it was called yesterday, Guenther Rumrich, one of the four defendants, pleaded guilty and promised to testify for the state. He had deserted from the army in 1935 and was charged specifically with having posed as an assistant secretary of state in an attempt to obtain 25 passport blanks for the use of fellow spies

CASE NEAR JURY

Defense To Close Today In 2nd Conn Slaying Trial.

CADIZ, O. — (U.P.) — The defense in the first degree murder trial of Bernard Masulla, 22, of Pittsburgh, was expected to close its case today after calling the defendant to the witness stand.

The case was expected to go to the jury of three women and nine men late today or Monday.

Masulla is accused of the murder of State Patrolman George Conn on a roadside near Freeport, O., on Sept. 27, 1937.

JUDGE LEAVES $22,000

CLEVELAND —(INS)— The will of the late U. S. District Court Judge Samuel H. West, on file in probate court here today, revealed an estate of approximately $22,000.

Puzzled Over Proposed Amendment? 'Official Arguments' Will Help You

Million Electors to Get Data For and Against Plan to Name Judges.

A crew of workers in the secretary of state's office at Columbus today prepared to enlighten voters in Mansfield and Richland county and other section of Ohio about a proposed constitutional amendment they will be asked to ballot on at the Nov. 8 election.

Nearly 1,000,000 copies of official arguments for and against the proposal, which would provide for the appointment of supreme and appellate court judges, were being prepared for mailing Monday to voters. A state law requires the secretary of state to inform voters of proposed amendments.

The arguments were prepared by committees of five members each named by Gov. Davey and Secretary of State William J. Kennedy.

Argument for the amendment will hold that appointment of reviewing judges would remove them from politics and the temptation to be swayed by questions of political expediency. It will also insist that appointment of judges will result in a higher type of judiciary, since many voters are not familiar with the qualifications of the judges whom they elect.

Opponents of the amendment will contend that the change will take the voters' right to choose judges and that "large influential law firms representing vested and selfish interests" would dominate judicial appointments "behind closed doors."

The proposal provides that the governor would appoint to the supreme and appellate courts from a panel of not less than three nor more than five names selected by the judicial council for each place.

The council is composed of the chief justice, one judge from each of the inferior courts and three attorneys chosen by the governer.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES—By Mail: Richland and adjoining counties per year, $4.00; 6 months, $2.25; 3 months, $1.25, (in advance), elsewhere in Ohio per year, $6.00; in U. S. outside of Ohio, per year, $7.00. By Carrier, per week, 15c.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1938.

Drive carefully tomorrow—you will want to enjoy more of these beautiful autumn days.

Only a month more, and this will be the ideal world. All you have to do is to vote for the millenium that all candidates promise.

At the present rate of progress, we'll soon have an automobile that will take you down town and park itself while you're reading a newspaper. You'll just speak into a dictaphone on the steering wheel, telling it where to go.

Our Sewage Problem.

A YEAR and a half ago Mansfield's $330,000 sewage treatment plant, hailed as one of the most modern in the country, was completed. It replaced an antiquated system and was designed not only to eliminate a sewage problem that was becoming a nuisance, but was imperiling the health of the community.

Since then it has been tested, experimented with and tested. Experts have been called in, mechanical changes have been made, new methods have been tried and other adjustments made—all in an effort to make the plant function so it can fully treat a capacity load. But success, apparently, is a long ways off.

A technician pointed out some weeks ago that the $330,000 plant was still an "experiment" and that "experimenting" would have to be continued.

Because the treatment of sewage is a technical business, the average taxpayer would be bewildered if he attempted to delve into the question himself, but he can't help but being further puzzled when you tell him the plant still isn't operating properly. Surely, he says in his own meek way, Mansfield's sewage problem shouldn't be much more complicated than those in other cities where similar sewage plants are functioning without all this fuss.

He asks, and justly so, why after a trial of 18 months, it isn't efficient?

Lorain County's Regret.

OVER in neighboring Lorain county, they have completed the first chapter of an unsavory public scandal. The case is that of a public official, the sheriff, an admitted bribe taker, going free and defiantly remaining in office, while those convicted of paying him for the privilege of operating slot machines, are sentenced to the penitentiary.

Because he appeared as a state witness and testified against his former cronies, Sheriff William F. Grall won immunity from prosecution.

Now the sheriff with the air of one who has been persecuted, looks at the conviction of the four "slot kings" as a "complete vindication" of himself.

It is commonly accepted that the bribe taker, especially when he is a public official whose sworn duty is to enforce the laws, is in greater disgrace than the bribe giver. Yet Mr. Grall, with amazing effrontery, stays in a public trust he has betrayed and dishonored, while a disgusted public with its hands tied temporarily, must wait until he decides to get out or go through with a recall petition.

Lorain county should be congratulated for the speed it showed in cleaning up a public mess in a hurry, once it came to light, but there is still regret—regret that Mr. Grall, too, cannot be tried by a jury.

Hoodlums In Vienna.

APPARENTLY Christian civilization and Nazism cannot live together in the same world. Hitler's persecution seems to be getting worse than Stalin's.

The attack on Cardinal Innitzer at Vienna, and the wrecking of his episcopal palace by Nazi hoodlums, is the most disgraceful episode yet. The cardinal had tried to conciliate the Nazis, while holding to the essentials of his religious faith and the traditional rights of the church. He had even asked his people to vote for the Austrian union with Germany, and a large part of the favorable vote must have come from that support. He merely asked, for his office and people, such rights as are freely granted in almost every civilized country. But Nazism itself seems to have become a religion, more and more given to violence after the manner of Mohammedanism in its early days.

The saddest thing about this shameful proceeding in the one peaceful and humane city of Vienna was the hooliganism and cruelty perpetrated by boys and girls of Hitler's "Youth Movement." There was no reverence, no respect for religion or law or decency, merely an urge to violate and destroy things usually respected even by heathen. What future is there in a land where youth is reared with such ideals?

Learning Languages.

HIGH SCHOOL children, and some parents, may be interested in a remarkable method of teaching foreign languages undertaken experimentally in the New York school system. According to Dr. Theodore Huebener, acting director:

Instead of emphasizing grammar, the teacher will try to make foreign languages interesting. There will be music, games and literature introduced. The "approach will be sympathetic."

Thus pupils will "collect and organize illustrative material, prepare scrapbooks, models and collections, develop projects planned by the class and the teacher, read books in English on the foreign land, consult books of reference and write English reports on their reading."

Dr. Huebener lays down these rules: "Don't drill paradigms; don't translate English into the foreign language; don't stress rules and exceptions; don't use technical grammatical explanations; don't interrupt a pupil to make a correction."

It will doubtless be interesting, and the pupils will learn a good deal about foreign countries. But will they learn the languages?

American students nearly always have difficulties with foreign tongues. Boys and girls abroad seem to master them with much less trouble. Do they use any such elaborate system as this, or just go to work and learn them?

Rome is the quietest city in Europe. All auto horns are silenced. Nobody but Mussolini is allowed to make any noise.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Some day, when my typewriter fingers (both of them) are too weary to hit another key, I'm going to get me a hobby. Not just fishing, which ends with the first snowfall. And not just canning and preserving, which is over when the fruits and watermelon rinds are all in. But something I can do all the year around; something in a department in which I'll be the only one there is and know all there is to know about it.

Maybe I'll collect perforated typewriter ribbons—guess how I thought of that?

Or doormats—there's a welcome idea (Ugh!)

Or discarded church steeples. Now I'm getting warm. I'll bet I could be the only church steeple collector in the world.

Don't think for a minute that this is just the ramblings of a columnist's idle hour. I've been talking to Dave Elman. Dave's the gent that originated that Hobby Lobby program on radio a couple of years back and more recently started what he calls a hobby clinic. He didn't know what he was letting himself in for on that.

* * *

The master hobbyist learned a couple of things about hobbies, too. And before you chuck the garage business to start a collection with the swiss-cheesy inner tubes cluttering your place, cast your eye over these fundamental rules that Elman evolved.

First, there is no hobby so far-fetched, so unusual, that it cannot be made to pay. All right, collecting shredded inner tubes is okay.

Second, your hobby must absorb and interest you for its own sake, and not for the money in it. Well, that's fine, too. Of course you love the ripped tubes for themselves and you can't tear yourself away from them.

Third, you must become the supreme authority on the subject. Since you'll be the only one in the field, your word, ipso facto (or something) will be law. Pass.

All right, go ahead. Now you've got your hobby, collecting shredded inner tubes. The rest is up to you and the stretch of your imagination. I throw out this idea gratis, bearing in mind that Elman has unearthed far fancier hobbies which are money-makers.

* * *

For example, the raising and training of angleworms. Elman is something of a fisherman himself, so he was tickled pink to hear of this one.

It seems that an Izaak Walton devotee got pretty disgusted one day when he was out fishing because the worms were so weak they fell off the hook. Then and there he decided to raise his own. He got together a couple of hardy wrigglers and started a worm farm. Other fishermen heard of his worms and begged for them. Now he packs them in cans and ships them all over the country—the finest, fattest worms any fish ever grabbed at.

Elman now has 500,000 hobbies on file. Here are some of the more unusual ones: the school teacher in Huntsville, Ala., who paints pictures on cobwebs; the policeman in Cleveland who raises fish that talk; the woman who collects egg shells; the fellow in Iowa who collects hairpins; and the New York lassie who makes greeting cards from chicken and turkey wishbones.

The more I think of it, the better I like that idea of collecting church steeples. I can start with the one the hurricane blew down up New England way. Hey, Dave, is anybody collecting steeples yet?

THE GOLDEN TORNADO

Saito's Return Stirs Speculation

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The official version is that Hirosi Saito is retiring as Japan's ambassador in Washington because of poor health. Diplomats, state departmental folk and others who consider themselves really "in the know," pooh-pooh this explanation unqualifiedly. Their account is that His Excellency is being recalled due to military influence in Tokio. Or else, may be (as an alternative guess), he is quitting voluntarily, being personally so completely out of sympathy with his home militarists' policy.

Nippon's activities in China unquestionably have made the islanders extremely unpopular in this country. Their unpopularity is something of an injustice to the bulk of the Japanese. The Japs generally are a very likable people. As a one-time news correspondent in the Far East I met several of their cabinet members and found them as intelligent and peaceable as that kind of gentry anywhere. Their Samurai class, however, is homicidally cuckoo. It isn't comparable to any other caste on earth.

* * *

Two-Gun Men.

The Samurai are a survival of what, in our own Wild Western days, we referred to as two-gun men.

Says a poem on the subject:

"The cow town's dead.
"It's many a year since spurred heels trod its walks.
"But on Boot Hill (the cow town cemetery) at night,
"They say the two-gun man still stalks."

Well, the Samurai were two-swordsmen. And they still stalk, with modern improvements. They're not ghosts, either.

To illustrate:

A few years ago, when the Japanese campaign against China was in its incipiency, then Premier Inukai pointed out that Nippon hadn't the funds to wage a prolonged war. Thereupon a Samurai committee called in to assassinate him—to teach him to have funds when required. Somehow the militarists get away with this sort of thing. It has an intimidating effect upon rational Japanese statesmanship.

* * *

Japan's Peculiar System.

Here, our war and navy departments are governmental sub-divisions. In Japan militarism is as independent of the rest of the government as the well-known hog on ice. It does as it pleases, regardless of the cabinet, of parliament, of the mikado himself. Disagreements result. Genuine Japanese statesmanship may reason that militarism has gone nutty—but, if it insists on it too hard, it's liquidated. The whole thing is a throwback to the dark ages. Yet it exists.

* * *

Civilization Gone to Hades.

Retiring Japanese Ambassador Saito is civilized. I suppose he HAS tried to defend, in the United States, a Japanese course that he doesn't believe in. He's done his best at a bad job. He isn't a militarist. His health's all right. But recently, Foreign Minister Ugaki of Japan resigned. Ugaki was one of the reasonable crowd in Japan, and Saito was one of his foremost supporters in the foreign field. No wonder that Saito threw up his hands.

Kensuke Horinouchi gets Mr Saito's place. Mr. Horinouchi has been an ex-undersecretary of Japanese foreign affairs. But what faction does he represent?—true Japan or the bughouse militarists? Heaven knows!—not being sure of politics in Japan!

Don't Fuss Over Broken Ideals!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

What a fuss we make over our Ideals—and how sure we are that they are infallible. Secretly, we measure all new acquaintances by this private pattern of perfection. We give them, indeed, almost a sacred rating; regard them as Moses must have regarded the Ten Commandments—as a sort of divine tip on righteousness.

And no blow demoralizes us as much as the shadowing of our ideals...nor is any enemy as hated as the monster who causes that shattering. We may suffer poverty, accident, sickness, abuse, yet pull ourselves together again. But if someone wrecks those shining illusions we abandon ourselves to hopeless bitterness.

Many of us, indeed, take the count completely after such an experience — refuse to believe in anything or anybody anymore — give up the fight to make good.

* * *

LOSS OF IDEALS.

Question any derelict, and nearly always you will find that he traces his downfall to the "loss of his Ideals."

Once life seemed a splendid crusade and he it's bravest crusader. Then something or someone smashed that vision by some ugly act and the world was never the same again. For of what use is life if one's Ideals are gone?

Why struggle if you believe in nothing, hope for nothing, trust no one?

That's the derelict's story, and he sticks to it. Nor is he usually blamed. To the contrary, most of us sympathize with him—even admire his spirit, and consider such surrender the proof of a noble, sensitive spirit.

As a code for cowards and crybabies, this Broken Ideals theory is a honey...but otherwise it's tommyrot. There's no reason whatever why one's life should be ruined because one's Ideals are shattered. Nor even any excuse for making a fuss about it.

There's nothing divine about our Ideals. They are self-created standards, and like all other personal notions, are no bigger or better than the intelligence from which they spring.

Take, for example, our Ideals of marriage or manhood, or womanhood. They listen lovely—but when it comes to practical sense they may be, and frequently are, completely cockeyed. Even the wisest of us have but a crude conception of the Truth.

Then how can the average person, with his narrow experience and limited intelligence, possibly know what a perfect marriage, a perfect man or woman should be?

* * *

CAN'T TAKE IT.

Moreover, how can an Ideal formed say at sixteen, possibly serve as a correct guide through life?

It can't. It's as inadequate for solving mature problems as one's baby teeth would be for chewing a barbecue.

Normal people expect to change, discard and outgrow their Ideals as they do all other outmoded possessions. It's as uncivilized to cling to the same set of Ideals through life as it would be to wear the same undershirt—and as disgusting to those who have to do business with you.

Actually, it isn't one's soul that suffers when an Ideal is wrecked, but one's Conceit.

Nine-tenths of our Ideals are simply pattycake pictures of THE WAY WE'D LIKE THINGS TO BE—and have nothing whatever to do with real life or immortal truth.

Then we smash up against reality, and our pampered childish souls can't take it. We're terrified and furious....suffering really, from a six-year-old tantrum. But this we won't admit. Instead, we save our faces by making a Great Tragedy out of it.

Don't make a fuss over your shattered Ideal.

Any Ideal that can be broken by reality isn't worth keeping.

Grow a new one—a wider one—one that's elastic enough to fit ever-changing, ever-growing life.

Grab Bag

One-Minute Test.

1. What is the origin of the word "salary"?
2. Who was the first English printer?
3. Can you name the capital of Jugoslavia?

Words of Wisdom.

Who falls for love of God shall rise a star.—Jonson.

Hints on Etiquette.

A widow who becomes engaged removes her former engagement ring. She may wear it on her right hand, if her fiance does not object, or have it reset for her daughter to wear.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. It comes from the Roman word "sal", meaning salt. In the ancient Roman empire salt was scarce, and part of the soldiers' salaries were paid in that medium. It was called "salarium", and later the word came to mean fixed wages.
2. William Caxton.
3. Belgrade.

What's Happened?

Week-End Summary of Current Events.

PAST events cast shadows, too, and the made-in-Munich silhouettes of Europe's Big Four—Hitler, Chamberlain, Mussolini, Daladier—continued to dominate the international stage this week. But the spotlight turned to four bit-players.

Lindy and the Russians.

America's Charles A. Lindbergh, 36, self-exiled to France, became an unwilling symbol of Europe's continuing debate about whether Chamberlain and Daladier paid Hitler too much for peace at Munich two weeks ago.

When the flying colonel visited Russia in August, Moscow's best-known newspaper quoted him in praise of Soviet aviation. The same paper, this week, called him "a stupid liar and a lackey and flatterer of German fascists."

The article, signed by 11 Soviet aviation leaders, accused him of contributing to British fear of Germany by spreading the "slanderous fabrication" that "Germany alone has an air force strong enough to defeat the combined air fleets of England, France, the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia."

That "non-stop flight into the realm of calumny," it said, was made at a dinner given for him in London recently by American-born Lady Astor. Said Lady Astor: "Col. Lindbergh has not dined with us since he returned from Russia. . . . It is a complete lie."

Funk and the Balkans.

Dr. Walter Funk, 48, chubby German minister of economics, drew the spotlight as a symbol of the Munich partners' clashing trade ambitions.

He arranged new German commercial agreements with Yugoslavia and Turkey and made a survey of southeastern Europe which Nazis said, showed other Danubian and Balkan countries slipping more and more into Hitler's economic orbit.

Hore-Belisha and the Army.

Britain's dynamic war minister, Leslie Hore-Belisha, 44, became a willing symbol of the arms speed-up by which all Europe confessed its fear that the Munich meeting may only have postponed war.

He said the British territorial army, which corresponds to the U. S. national guard, henceforth will have more machine-guns, more medium-sized artillery, more tanks, more anti-aircraft guns, more motorcycles and other motorized equipment.

Ciano and the Spaniards.

Count Galeazzo Ciano, 35, Mussolini's son-in-law and Italy's foreign minister, was this weeks symbol of diplomatic mopping-up after Munich.

Britain and Italy decided last April, to bury the hatchet in the Mediterranean as soon as the Spanish war is settled. Now the Spanish government is taking foreigners out of its army, and Ciano got credit for the announcement that some Italian soldiers will be withdrawn from the insurgent side.

At Home

Men at Work.

The supreme court's eight justices (nobody has been named to succeeds Justice Cardozo, who died last July) held their first public business session of the 1938 term this week — and, among other things:

1. Refused, with Justices Black and Reed dissenting, to review Tom Mooney's latest appeal for freedom from San Quentin prison, where he is serving a life term for complicity in a fatal San Francisco bombing 22 years ago.

2. Decided to look into three cases involving activities of the National Labor Relations board, including a lower court's decision permitting the board to withdraw litigation for amendment of its procedure against the Ford Motor company.

* * *

Results of the Game.

The army air corps played war again this week around Fort Bragg, N. C., and officers reported these results and conclusions: (1) A warning net of civilian observers functioned perfectly in detecting the approach of "enemy" bombers. (2) Pursuit planes were successful in intercepting an attack fleet that flew so high it couldn't be seen from the ground. (3) Bombers attacking at night were able to keep above the range of searchlights. (4) The army's entire anti-aircraft equipment would be insufficient to protect any major coastal city from aerial bombardment.

Labor

Most organized U. S. workers belong to (1) William Green's AFL, which claims 3,623,087 dues-paying members, or (2) John L. Lewis's CIO, which reports its membership as "upwards from 4,000,000." Their rivalry dates from the fall of 1935, when the AFL turned down Lewis's idea for "one big union" in each mass-production industry. Lewis, and other union leaders who favored his idea, thereupon formed the CIO. As the war entered its fourth year . . .

President Roosevelt sent this message to the AFL's annual convention in Houston, Tex., last week: "If leaders of organized labor can make and keep the peace . . . it will vastly increase the prestige of labor within the country and prevent the reaction which otherwise is bound to injure the workers themselves."

Green commented next day: "Overtures for a peace conference should and ought to come from the CIO. There is no immiedate prospect for peace."

Daniel Tobin, head of the AFL teamsters' union told the convention this week: "We want a settlement. . . ."

The convention then adopted a resolution attacking Lewis as "a Caesar who has constituted himself as a dictator of the CIO" and concluding: "Confronted with such an issue, there is no solution until the adherents of that man deprive him of authority or he voluntarily steps aside."

Lewis told newsmen next day: "I'm willing to resign today or tomorrow or any day thereafter as chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization if Mr. Green is willing simultaneously to resign as president of the American Federation of Labor."

Green retorted: "An attempted fraud and deception of the public. . . . To anyone familiar with the labor situation, it is obvious that even if he resigned as chairman of the CIO he would still remain its dictator behind the scenes."

Abroad

Czech Check-Up.

The neighbors bit deeper into the Czechoslovak apple this week: Germany finished swallowing the best parts of Bohemia. Poland nibbled at Moravia. Hungary's mouth watered for more and more of Slovakia. And pessimists predicted: "There ain't gonna be no core."

Nazi army men said the agricultural regions left to the Czechs could live only by exporting to industrial centers now in German hands, and concluded that Czechoslovakia had no choice but to become the vassal of Germany. Prague heard Berlin would demand a customs union between the two countries and an end to the Czech alliances with France and Russia.

* * *

Three-Quarter Victory.

Paraguay and Bolivia argued for a century, and waged war from 1832 to 1935 over 100,000 square miles of South America's Chaco. When the war ended, Paraguay's commander-in-chief, Gen. Jose Felix Estigarribia, was arrested.

Turbulence continued. Last July the two countries agreed to arbitration. And this week, Gen. Estigarribia, in Paraguay's behalf, signed an agreement by which his country got more than three-fourths of the disputed land.

People

Anti-Accident Meeting.

With $1,400 to spend, W. H. Cameron started out 25 years ago to reduce accident hazards to human life and limb. Now the National Safety Council, of which he is managing director, has an annual budget of $750,000 and is concerned mainly with auto accidents.

"The crux of it all is the education of the driver," Cameron told the council's silver jubilee conference in Chicago this week.

* * *

Company Coming.

Two princes of Wales have visited America, but never an English king or queen. That won't be true much longer, however, for George VI and Queen Elizabeth are planning a trip to Canada early next summer. And while they're over this way, some think they may visit the New York world's fair.

Science

Measuring Up.

An airplane's air-pressure altimeter shows the pilot how far above sea level he is flying. But what he needs to know, when flying blind, is how far his plane is from the ground. Perfection of a new kind of altimeter to show that was announced this week.

It shoots a radio signal at the earth and times its rebound, and is so sensitive that its needle will jigger when a plane passes over a rowboat on a lake. Airline people hope it will eliminate the danger of crashing into a mountain when a pilot gets off his course in bad weather.

* * *

Fugitive Balloons.

If war comes, England hopes to keep enemy bombers off London with a giant steel fence hung from scores of captive balloons. When the contraption was tried out several weeks ago, one captive got loose and sailed across the English Channel, dragging a cable which uprooted trees and ripped out power lines before an irate French peasant shot it down.

GIVE FIRST AFFAIR FOR BERNICE HEUSS

Three Friends Entertain Friday at Dessert-Bridge Party In Honor of Bride-Elect of William Enlow.

THE first in a series of pre-nuptial parties was given last night at the home of Mrs. Floyd Adams, South Mulberry street, by Mrs. Adams, Miss Grace Ladd and Mrs. Earl Brandenburg. The affair was a dessert-bridge and personal shower in honor of Miss Bernice Heuss.

Dessert was served at three small tables set with Fiesta ware. Each table was centered with a candle around which pompons and other fall flowers were banked. Bridge winners were Miss Martha Hering and Mrs. Harry Oster. The awards were given to the bride-elect.

Miss Heuss found her shower gifts by working a puzzle which directed her to their hiding place. The three hostesses presented the guest of honor with a personal gift also.

Miss Heuss, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heuss, 41 Douglas avenue, will become the bride of William Enlow, son of Harker Enlow, 507 Springmill street. The ceremony will be performed Oct. 29 at St. Paul Lutheran church by Rev. H. L. Gilbert.

Women Golfers to Have Final Session

The final regularly scheduled matches for women golfers of Westbrok Country club will be played Tuesday at the club. Pairings will be made there, the committee announced. Last week's winners were Mrs. E. R. Hartman, Mrs O. H. Schettler and Mrs. Paul Endriss.

Tuesday the members will play for low net score with a luncheon to follow. A covered-dish will be served by Mrs. Ally Jones, locker house attendant, and members are asked to bring service, sandwiches and a beverage. In the event of rain, bridge will be played.

It was announced that matches will continue throughout the autumn months as long as the weather permits.

* * *

ACCEPT TWO.

Two new members, Mrs. Leo Gilbert and Mrs. C. G. Critchfield, were accepted as members, and Mrs. Earl Mann was a guest of the Mary-Martha Bible Study club when the group was entertained by Mrs. V. D. Mrs. Mauk Honored at Meeting With Shower

Mrs. C. L. Mauk, 86 Dawson avenue, who entertained members of the L'Allegria club yesterday at her home was honored with a handkerchief shower in celebration of her birthday. There were two tables of five hundred in play.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Clayton Crowl and Mrs. J. Stillett, Hyde Park, Pa., a guest at the meeting. The next session will be Oct. 28 with Mrs. G. F. Dodge, 725 Bowman street, as hostess.

Council Members Plan to Attend Bucyrus Session

Plans for attending the union meeting at Bucyrus Nov. 17 were discussed last night when members of the Lady Garfield council, No. 24, Daughters of America, met in Eagles hall for a regular session. Miss Florence Matthes presided.

Following the routine business meeting a social hour was held and readings were given by Mrs. Elizabeth Croskey and Mrs. Anna Weaver. Mrs. Altha Krisher offered several piano numbers. Luncheon was served by Mrs. Allie Garrett and her committee. The council will meet again Oct. 28 at the hall.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

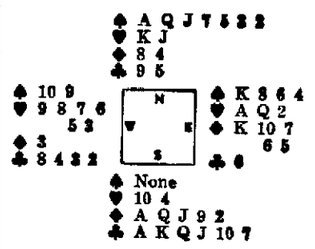
"The Authority on Authorities"

NOTHING UNIMPORTANT

PLAYERS WHO DISCARD carelessly, while trumps are being run, waste a lot of tricks. Close observation of the declarers methods in his play to the early tricks may give a clue to his hand and point out the necessity of holding onto your own long suit while tossing off cards of shorter suits.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South bid 1-Club on this deal, North responded with 1-Spade and South bid game in clubs.

As the cards lie, South should lose two hearts and two diamonds, but west made the bad lead of his singleton diamond, which East covered with the K and South with the A. As declarer had no entry to dummy except the uncertain play to the hearts, he decided to lead out six clubs. On the last two of these, West had thrown his two spades, but East, without paying attention, tossed diamonds. The result was that South was able to run the remainder of his diamonds, which, with the six clubs, gave him his contract.

If East had noticed the two spades dropped by West, he would have known that South was blank and tossed all his spades instead of diamonds.

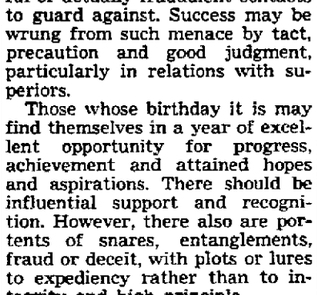
Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable).

What is the proper defense against South's 3-Diamond contract?

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Oct. 16.

Sunday's horoscope holds auguries of fine opportunities for promotion, progress and prosperity, with those in high places contributing to advancement, preferment and dignities. At the same time there are definite omens of doubtful or actually fraudulent contacts to guard against. Success may be wrung from such menace by tact, precaution and good judgment, particularly in relations with superiors.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of excellent opportunity for progress, achievement and attained hopes and aspirations. There should be influential support and recognition. However, there also are portents of snares, entanglements, fraud or deceit, with plots or lures to expediency rather than to integrity and high principle.

A child born on this day may be versatile, clever and ambitious, with many high and desirable traits leading it to success and respect. But it may have certain lures to easy ways, short cuts and sharp practices, unless properly directed in early youth.

For Monday, Oct. 17.

Monday's astrological forecast is for much activity, bringing interest to affairs that may have long been rather static. There should be rather sagacious and determined effort brought to bear for arousing productive issues and putting the fortunes on a stabilized basis. However, such endeavors may encounter some jealousies or attempts to defeat. An inheritance or a contested will might cause this anxiety, although papers, writings, etc., contribute definitely to success and prosperity.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of much activity, especially in connection with the revitalizing of stagnant or static affairs. Determined effort and sagacity should offset this crystallization and put the fortunes on a firmer basis. But beware of jealousy and protect the possessions, which may be bound up in wills, insurance or old investments. Papers, documents and writings are factors of success.

A child born on this day may be serious, determined, hardworking and sound in aspiration, but also passionate, indulgent and wayward. However, it should be loving, sympathetic and socially inclined.

NUPTIAL EVENTS TAKE SOCIAL LIMELIGHT

Announcement of Engagement of Miss Mary Grassel to Anthony Lehman; Shower Parties Important Affairs.

THE most exciting news on the social horizon this weekend is the announcement of marriage plans and the reports of pre-nuptial affairs. Mrs. Anton Grassel, 36 Mendota street, is announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Mary, to Anthony Lehman. The wedding ceremony will be read Oct. 29 at 9:30 a. m. in St. Peter's Catholic church with Monsignor R. C. Goebel officiating.

* * *

LAST night Mrs. John Lamley, Hedges street, opened her home for the first pre-nuptial party to be given in honor of Miss Helen Heitz. The evening was spent in games and contests. Winners were Miss Mary Holda, Miss Rose Huck and Mrs. Carl Kalstein. A miscellaneous shower was given the bride-elect, and the hostess presented an electric clock.

Miss Heitz, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Heitz, 290½ First avenue, will become the bride of George LaRue, son of Mr. and Mrs. George LaRue, Ashland, Nov. 6, at the Martin Luther church of Columbus.

* * *

MRS. JEROME BOELLER, 173 East Third street, opened her home Thursday evening for a linen shower and party in honor of Miss Lois Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Miller, 32 West Arch street, who will become the bride of Charles Walter, 304 West Fourth street, Oct. 22, at St. Peter's Catholic church.

She was assisted by Miss Catherine Baki and Mrs. Michael Richards. Games were played, and the prize winners were Miss Catherine Hornung, Miss Helen Austin and Miss Frances Mutsch.

Luncheon was served to the 15 guests at four small tables. A Quaker lace table cloth was presented to the bride-elect by the three hostesses.

AFRAID TO MARRY + + +

By HELEN WELSHIMER

(Copyright, 1938)

CHAPTER 20

The count bowed deeply.

"And who, may I ask, is Judy? Probably I should know but I must confess—" He shook his head dubiously.

"I'm secretary to Miss Boland," Judy told him, watching his surprise.

"She's a daughter of Malcolm Rogers of the Street," somebody added.

"Oh, yes, yes, of course." His eyes narrowed and his expression said that he remembered the story. "Your mother is abroad, is she not? I met her last year, and she mentioned a daughter."

"Phillippe, we're late." Abbey's icy tones ended the conversation The merrymakers went through the great door into the waiting cars. Judy went up the steps alone.

She wished that she had stayed out of doors half an hour longer. This meeting could have been avoided. She knew instinctively Abbey resented it. She knew, also, that Abbey was going to desperate measures to enhance her social prestige in the eyes of the count. She must have pulled some pretty fine strings to get two or three of those people to come to her dinner.

It seemed rather absurd and foolish, this fine-point technique of the social game. Once it had been important. No, she told herself, it hadn't. She had yielded to it because it was part of her life. Gratefully she realized that she perferred, really preferred, to be on the outside accomplishing something.

* * *

She slipped into cream satin pajamas, threw the windows wide, and climbed into bed. She was half asleep when the telephone at her bed rang. She picked it up. She had noted a minute switchboard in the lower hall which the butler operated. Who could be wanting her?

"Judy?" The cheerful, confident tones belonged to Ronald Birrell. "How are you doing?"

"Oh, fine! I'm unpacked, and I've got a view of the Sound, and an open wood fire. Why didn't you come to the party tonight?"

"I wasn't invited," he answered ruefully.

"Neither was I." She couldn't resist that.

"But I am included in the week-end festivities. I'm coming out tomorrow night."

She was glad, Judy realized.

* * *

If Judy had any thought that she might be included in some of the week-end merrymakings, following the welcome accorded her by the Friday evening dinner guests, she changed her mind. Abbey Boland was brisk, efficient, demanding Satuday morning. She gave Judy a list of names to whom notes were to be sent, indicating the context of the message. She wanted a menu planned, some linen checked. She had a dozen errands. One of them included a purchase in the village.

About 5 o'clock Judy closed her desk, put on a sweater she had worn the previous night, and started to the village store. Abbey wanted candles, slim and ivory, for a tea table for Sunday. Judy was quite sure the local shop would not have them. Still, an order was an order. She would do her best.

She was correct. The store had white candlesticks, and green and red. No ivory. She made a purchase of the white and started home. Ronald would be arriving soon. The train she noted was on the tracks now. She had walked about 100 yards when the town car passed her. Not the country wagon, this time. In it were Abbey, the Count, Ronald and someone else. She knew that Abbey pretended not to see her.

She was almost sure the Count waved. The car did not stop. Had she been asked to ride, Judy would have pleaded the need of exercise. To be deliberately slighted was another matter.

* * *

Trudging up the road, the wind singing through the blue trees, Judy forgot Abbey. She calmed herself with the far view across the water. She was nearly home when a tall figure came toward her. She recognized the count. He swung into step with her.

"Miss Rogers, let me apologize. My fiancee, at times, has very bad manners." His eyes twinkled.

"Maybe she doesn't watch the road," Judy answered, laughing, too.

"No. Bad manners. American manners." He shook his head.

"Love should be blind to any trifling faults," Judy reminded him.

"Is that another way of saying that if I get too critical of Abbey she'll toss my great-grandmother's crested emerald back at me, and marry a good hardware salesman?". His eyes twinkled.

"No, she won't do that. She'll take the criticism and like it, I suppose. Some women are like that."

"Not you?"

"I don't approve of marriage even when the two people salute the same flag."

"Come, come, Miss Rogers. How would the world populate itself?"

"Why does it have to be populated? Love's such a travesty. It doesn't last."

"You have loved a door."

"No. I didn't love anyone. I once thought I did."

"Then is love so necessary for marriage?" he queried.

"You don't thing so, I gather?" asked Judy.

"There should be some romance, of course. But there are a possible dozen or more people anyone could wed from his acquaintances, and be actually happy. Is it not so?"

"To your way of thinking, yes. To mine, no. Abbey loves you a great deal, you know."

The count looked down at her, and shook his head, commiseratingly.

"And I love her. Never fear. I'll not tell her that her new secretary offered criticism of her. After all, who am I that I should? Miss Boland is a delightful and charming girl, my affianced wife. I respect her very much."

"You used to know a friend of mine," Judy said steadily. "Marjorie Barton."

The gay eyebrows were lifted too quickly. "You know her?"

"We were roommates at the same school." She named it.

"It is a good school. I have known others from there. I saw Marjorie at the party when the boat docked. Only for a minute. What is she doing?"

An impish idea seized Judy. Marjorie's aunt had endowed a hospital. Marjorie's father was wealthy, but not extravagantly so. But Judy said: "The hospital endowment of the Bartons has interested her. Ten millions is a lot of money, don't you think?"

Judy saw the dart go home. He had not known Marjorie's family had so much. She spoke again: "It's an aunt's money but Marjorie helps her with plans."

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

For Avis Arlen, slinkiest and snakiest of girls, wielding an outmoded "flapperism" as a weapon against clearer-brained, warmer-hearted and more wholesome comrades, had been a stormy petrel on Mary's emotional horizon since the earliest days of her betrothal to Noel.

As fresh in my memory as if it had been yesterday, I remembered the girl's advent as a visitor to the farmhouse. The daughter of a deceased business partner of Philip Veritzen, the great dramatic producer had brought her and her mother to the farmhouse, after begging an invitation for them from me. Though at that time I was in Philip Veritzen's employ, and the invitation seemed a necessary courtesy on my part, I had lived to rue deeply the moment that Avis Arlen set her foot on our floor. Almost from the moment she had crossed the threshold, she had made what Mrs. Ticer called a "dead set" for Noel. In this she had been abetted by Philip Veritzen, who, I was sure, after Princess Olina's betrothal to Prince Georges had been announced, had tried to foist Avis as a bride upon his son.

Continued Tactics.

Even after I had induced Philip Veritzen to give Noel his mother's legacy and to consent to his marriage with Mary, Avis had continued her sniping tactics. She almost had spoiled Mary's wedding. If it had not been for my intervention, Noel and Mary would have eloped to escape her, and missed the pretty home ceremony "With a veil 'n' everything", upon which Mary had set her heart.

And Dicky and I were both convinced that Avis Arlen was responsible for the slimy anonymous letter which had come to Mary concerning Noel in the early days of their marriage, when Philip Veritzen was compelling his son to assist in the mysterious preparations for the reception of the refugee queen of Transvania and her daughter.

Miss Whitlock's eyes, signaling the query as to her next procedure, brought me back from my kaleidoscopic memories with a jerk, and I spoke with stern, deliberate slowness to the writhing figure which Miss Whitlock and I were holding down upon the bed.

"As long as you behave yourself, Avis, you will not hurt," I told her. "I simply want you to answer a few questions. But I am going to tell you first that if Miss Whitlock removes her hand now holding your lips shut, a scream will do you no possible good. She will stop the first one with her hand, and then we will be compelled to gag you. I understand that is not a very comfortable process. It is one which I am unwilling to employ unless I am compelled to do so, but you may as well know that I will stop at nothing to find out what is behind this extraordinary performance of yours."

The fury in her eyes had not lessened, but I saw that she was attentively following my words nevertheless.

Promises to Behave.

"I have no reason to take your word, Avis," I went on. "You have broken it to me many times, but with the threat of gagging held over you, I think I can believe you. If you will promise not to scream, Miss Whitlock will take her hand from your mouth. But remember, one sound above an ordinary conversational tone, and we shall gag you. Now, if you are willing to promise, close your eyes."

For a long instant, she hesitated, her glaring eyes looking steadily into mine as if measuring my determination. Then she capitulated, and her eyelids closed tightly, shutting out the fury beneath them.

I nodded to Miss Whitlock, and she removed her hand from the girl's mouth. We watched her narrowly, but she made no attempt to scream. But her eyes opened, and in them was gratified malice as well as fury.

"I suppose you two realize what you are letting yourself in for by treating me this way," she said.

Rams Regain Victory Stride; Shelby and Galion Romp

Gene Harmon Tallies Four Touchdowns as Madison Halts Upper Sandusky.

By CHUCK MARTIN

MADISON HIGH again demonstrated its supremacy over Class B grid opponents last night when it smothered Upper Sandusky, 34 to 12, under the floodlights at Madison field before a fair-sized crowd.

Not since 1936 have the Rams tasted defeat from a Class B school, and last night they regained their winning stride interrupted by Mt. Vernon last week.

Overwhelm Rivals.

Coach Al Fendrick's high-scoring outfit cut loose with a brilliant attack in the second and third periods to overwhelm its rival.

Led by Gene Harman, who personally tallied four touchdowns, the Rams showed no ill effects of their setback by the Jackets.

Upper Sandusky scored both its markers in the fourth period against the Madison reserves.

Fendrick sent 34 players into the battle, and only during the scoring was the first eleven in the melee. Madison followers got a glimpse of the 1939 edition which started the game.

After the understudies had held the visitors in check in the opening chapter, Fendrick inserted the regulars and things started rolling immediately.

Harmon opened the attack with a spectacular 58-yard dash for the first touchdown and added the second a short while later on a plunge through tackle from the eight. A feature of Harmon's gallop was Joe Miller's effective blocking.

Coming back again after the intermission, Bill Wilkins opened the scoring on an end-around play from the 10. Harmon added the final two markers before leaving the game after receiving a nose injury in the fourth quarter.

He scored the fourth touchdown when he ran down the sidelines after intercepting an Upper Sandusky pass on the invaders' 30, and added the last one on a sweep from the 20.

Joe Miller's educated toe added three points from placement and Bill Wilkins snagged a pass from Miller in the end zone for the other point.

Open With Passes.

After Fendrick had sent practically all the regulars into the showers, Upper Sandusky began to click with a passing attack that accounted for one marker with Bower hauling the pigskin over from the Madison 30. A little later Scheck intercepted a Ram pass and raced 50 yards for a score. Bower's placement and pass for the points were stopped cold by the Rams' hard charging line.

Madison staged another goalward thrust in the fourth period, but was halted on Upper Sandusky's 11. Harmon had carried the ball to the 22 where he was injured.

The Rams had one touchdown called back on pass interference after Harmon had raced over the end zone.

Coals Hosts to Rossford Sunday

GAINING more smoothness and precision with every game, Coach Gip Miller's Kalimerten & Baer Coals figure they are due to snap their three-game losing streak.

Sunday, around 2:30 p. m., the Coalmen engage the touted Rossford Merchants at League park, and they are anxious to place this game on the victory side of the ledger to make amends for the string of whippings.

The foe the Coals engage Sunday is just as dangerous as any tackled this year, judging from the records. It is undefeated in three appearances this season.

Mansfield semi-pro teams have met the Merchants in previous years, and the difference in scores have never been more than one touchdown.

Indications point to another close battle Sunday, with the Coals standing a good chance to win if their play has improved as much as Coach Miller believes.

Mansfield's starting lineup is indefinite, but no radical changes are expected. One of the few changes will find Bob Hall in a starting assignment in the backfield.

The Rossford team boasts of a lineup studded with names of many former collegiate performers.

Included among the backs Rossford will bring to the city will be Joe Losonsky of Toledo U., Joe Durco of Xavier and Earl Fitzgerald of Michigan State.

Linemen with college experience include Mike Andry of Ohio U., Kelly Clement of Bowling Green, Red Andry of Pittsburgh, John Martin of Wooster, Vic Kurek of Santa Clara and Cork Losonsky of Ohio U.

Mansfield Bantams Open Sunday

Face Undefeated Akron Club at Fairground.

THE famed Red Peppers' successors in Akron football will display their wares at the Fairground at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

The DeLuca Bismarcks, undefeated and untied, come to the city on the Sabbath to help the newly-formed Mansfield Bantams inaugurate their season.

In addition to an unmarred record, the Akron club boasts of an uncrossed goal line.

Coach Harry Dandakis' men will be offered a real workout in their opener, and although the victory odds may be against them, the Bantams are hopeful of giving the visitors one of their toughest games of the year.

Dandakis' untried lineup has shown promise in practice, and the game Sunday will determine what chances it has in competition with other bantamweight clubs on its schedule.

The Mansfield team will probably line up with Currick and Bosko, ends; Martin and Edwards, tackles; Miller and Swarner, guards; Moyer, center, and Seifert, Wise, Gloriosa and Hallabrin, backs.

Massillon Crew Stops Hume, Alliance, 19 to 6

Massillon's powerful Tigers trounced Alliance, 19 to 6, before 12,000 in the Mt. Union stadium last night to register their fifth straight victory. The defeat was the first of the season for the Aviators. Alliance's Hume, Ohio scoring leader with 102 points, was held scoreless.

Snyder scored two touchdowns, one on a 70-yard gallop, and Getz moved 65 yards for the other score.

WEAKENED WILLARD CLUB ROUTED BY OBERLIN, 39-0

WILLARD—A revamped Willard high eleven lost to Oberlin here last night by a 39 to 0 count. It was the worst defeat suffered by a Willard team in a decade. Coach David Query changed his lineup after suspending several regulars on the eve of the game.

Phil Ganni Leads Crestline To Upset Win Over Mt. Vernon

MT. VERNON — Crestline high blasted Mt. Vernon's Yellow Jackets unblemished home record last night when it registered a stunning 25 to 7 victory.

The Jackets, favored to topple the Crestline gridders, were defending a 12-game winning streak on their home field, but was unable to stop the invaders' fleet-footed backs.

Phil Ganni took complete charge last night, scoring three of Crestline's four touchdowns. He started the fireworks by returning a punt 70 yards in the first period, added his second on a 24-yard sprint in the third and climaxed his performance by galloping 76 yards in the fourth after intercepting a Mt. Vernon pass.

Schreck, subbing for Frye in the Crestline backfield, scored the opening touchdown when he intercepted a Jacket pass on his own 28 and raced through the whole Mt. Vernon team.

Mt. Vernon, which marked up 11 first downs to Crestlines' three, finally tallied in the fourth on a 28-yard pass from Schlosser to White.

Keltner added Crestline's extra point on a drop kick, and Nugent tallied the Jackets' point on a plunge.

The Crestline combine, which recently bowed to Madison high, had things well in hand last night. For three periods it stopped every Mt. Vernon goalward march. The Jackets entered the game as favorites by virtue of their 12 to 0 victory over Madison last week.

Defeats Redmen

Whippets, Led by Bliss, Baker, Keep Goal Line Uncrossed in Easy Victory.

By OSCAR KUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

SHELBY — With Harold Bliss, Robert Baker and Bobby Garner taking turns at wielding the ladle, Shelby high schools grid contingent mixed up a new batch of touchdowns to serve to their guests from Bucyrus town in their annual pigskin party staged before a near capacity crowd under the bulbs at Skiles field last night.

Scoring in every period but the last, Coach Bill Query's Whippets walloped a weak Redmen edition, 48 to 0, to register the most decisive triumph in the 18-year-old history of the rivalry.

Displays Power.

Shelby displayed power, deception and passing skill as it rolled up seven touchdowns with apparent ease, and presented a defense that contained authority.

The Whippets, whose goal line has not been crossed this season, extended their winning streak to five games. It was their second N. C. O. conference triumph.

Harold Bliss, rugged Shelby fullback, again was the chief menace in the hosts' ranks. Unstoppable in the first half, Bliss was taken out of the game in the early minutes of the third period. He tallied three times for the Scarlet and Grey.

Coach Query employed a flock of substitutes during the greater part of the second half, and they more than held their own with the hapless Redmen.

Bucyrus operated in Shelby territory only twice. Early in the third period, the Redmen passed to the 46. They recovered a pass by the Shelby center in the final quarter past midfield, but they failed to get beyond the 29.

Shelby accumulated 290 yards from rushing and 102 from passing for a total of 392 against a grand total of 70 for the invaders. First downs favored the Whippets, who lost 90 yards in penalties, 17 to 6.

The feature of the scoring parade was Bliss' 78-yard return of a punt for a touchdown in the first period. The fleet-footed Bliss merely ran away from the bewildered Redmen after shaking off a couple of tacklers at the start.

Recovery of Bucyrus fumbles set the stage for the first two scores. Bliss tallied the first score from the 15 and Bliss slipped through tackle from the two for the second. Then Bliss brought the crowd to its feet with his long touchdown run.

Score Three Times.

Baker added the second of his touchdowns in the second frame from the one-foot line after a long Miller-to-Terman pass had nullified a penalty. Shelby completed its scoring in the third quarter with three touchdowns Bliss rambled 39 yards for the first of the three after taking a throw from Miller. Baker spun over from the two for the next one, and Garner completed the rout with a dive from the four.

Jim Terman converted six out of seven kicks from placement to help the Whippets run up their biggest total of the season.

P. S.—Mansfield Coaches Russ Murphy and Harry Mehock witnessed the slaughter, which satisfied their curiosity that reports about the Bliss-paced Whippets are not wrong. Mansfield and Shelby collide Saturday.

Extends Streak

Orangemen Score Four Times In Third Period to Trim Norwalk, 38-13.

GALION—After failing to gain a comfortable advantage in the first half, Coach Johnny Burnisons Orangement of Galion high converted fumbles and passes into four touchdowns in rapid order in the third frame to wallop Norwalk, 38 to 13, before a fair-sized gathering here last night.

Bill Durtschi, Eugene Jack and Dick Secrist each scored two touchdowns as the Orangemen ran their winning streak to five games.

Scare Orangemen.

The visitors threw a scare in the Galion ranks in the second period when they tallied a touchdown on a pass from Halter to Stewart, good for 65 yards, and added the extra point to tie the score 7-all.

However, Galion came back a few moments later with a touchdown by Jack on a buck from the one, and the hosts never were in danger thereafter. The half ended with Galion on top, 13 to 7.

Durtschi scored on well-timed reverse from the Norwalk 37 for the first Galion score early in the opening period.

Galion scored four touchdowns in less time than it takes to tell about them in the third quarter. The first was registered by Durtschi from the eight.

A moment later, Jack tallied from the 20 after Galion recovered a fumble on the 22. Another fumble covered on the 22 was turned into a score on a throw from Corrado to Secrist.

Tally on Pass.

Corrado lateraled to Durtschi, who, in turn, passed 31 yards into the end zone to Secrist for the final marker.

Norwalk's final touchdown was hung up late in the fourth chapter when Reinich bucked over from the one-foot line to culminate a 49-yard drive.

Galion registered 12 first downs to the visitors' 10.

2 CLEARED OF 'FEE' CHARGES

Indictments Against Ashland Highway Employes Nolled; Ault To Stand Trial.

ASHLAND — Twenty-two indictments against Morgan Fitzpatrick, chief clerk, and Don B. Soles, garage foremen of the state highway department, were nolled in common pleas court yesterday and the two were freed of all charges in connection with the investigation of solicitation of and payment of assessments by civil service employes in the primary election campaign. Thirteen counts were against Fitzpatrick and nine were against Soles.

The indictments were nolled shortly before a motion for change of venue for Soles was to have been argued before Judge Philip Weiland of Mt. Gilead, presiding in common pleas court here by assignment.

Wiping out of the indictments was made on formal motion of Prosecutor A. Ross Siverling, with approval of Judge C. C. Chapman. Consent to the action also was given by Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, who sent a special representative here to aid in the grand jury investigation.

Nolling of the indictments against the two today leaves only Ivan R. Ault of the quartet indicted who must face charges. An indictment against R. O. Perrott, jr., assistant division engineer, on a similar charge, was nolled shortly after it was returned by the grand jury in August.

If a change of venue should be granted, it is expected Ault will be tried in Morrow county about Oct. 25. Fred R. Schell and L. A. Straits, counsel for Ault, have moved for a change of venue for their client on the belief that he could not be given a fair trial here.

The district is composed of Bucyrus, Shelby, Galion, Mansfield, Ashland, Wooster, Seville, Butler, Fredericksburg, Jeromesville, Marion and Iberia.

IDEAL DENIES BATTLING CIO

Company Offers Witnesses to To Prove Association Doesn't Oppose Union.

Attorneys for the Ideal Electric and Manufacturing company today turned their attention to the company's cooperative association for employes as they sought to prove that the organization did not oppose the CIO union in its activities at the Mansfield plant.

Taking the witness stand today in the National Labor Relations board's hearing of charges of unfair labor practices against the company, Herbert Garrett, president of the cooperative association, presented the organization's records and by-laws to show that its membership is voluntary and that it was not fighting the union.

Garrett's testimony showed that the cooperative intra-company association has a membership of approximately 75, or a majority of the plant's employes. Some of its members, it was pointed out, also belong to Local 705 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers union which filed charges against the Ideal company.

At a session which lasted until 10 o'clock last night, James W. Funk, a foreman at the plant, testified that he had laid off employes only as slack business conditions warranted it and that union membership had nothing to do with the hiring or discharging of workers.

The hearing, which has been in session for two weeks at the courthouse, probably will not be completed before Monday night.

SIMPSON P. T. A. TO HEAR KRAMER

Meets Tuesday to Conclude Annual Membership Drive.

Roosevelt to Ask Huge Fund To Build Program Giving U. S. More Security.

Great Britain and France pay the price of unpreparedness by giving in completely to Germany's demands.

The administration remembers that in the World war it took 14 months to put a single division into combat in France, and that even then, and throughout most of the war, the United States was forced to use French and British airplanes, artillery and other equipment, because it was unable to manufacture its own with sufficient rapidity.

The greatest armament program in the nation's history will be aimed at achieving these immediate aims:

1. Fully equipping an army of 480,000 regulars, National Guard and enlisted reserves with the minimum requirements for taking the field instantly.

2. Further strengthening of the navy, with construction of at least two more battleships of a size and fire power hitherto unknown to world navies.

3. Doubling the air corps to give the United States an air fleet equal to any in the world.

4. Preparing the nation's key industries to turn out guns, tanks, airplanes and shells, needed in war time on a mass production scale, without any delay.

LIST ADVANCES WITH UTILITIES, METALS IN LEAD

Traders, However, Wait for Mart to Give More Definite Sign of Next Move.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Minor gains predominated in today's early stock market proceedings, with coppers and utilities favored.

At an active start improvement was registered for Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Phelps Dodge, Consolidated Edison, National Power & Light, Pacific Gas, Douglas Aircraft, Pennsylvania, U. S. Steel and American Telephone.

Sentiment in boardrooms still was optimistic, before the opening, but many traders were inclined to wait for the market to give a more definite sign of its next move.

Further study was given building material shares on the basis of reports that construction financing by important life insurance companies was expected to establish a six or seven-year peak in the current year.

Interesting to holders of farm implement stocks were predictions from this field that foreign machinery sales should continue well around the high level of 1937 for some time to come.

The contract documents, including plans and specifications, will be on file on and after October 15th at the office of the Clerk of the Board of Education of the New Haven Rural School District, Huron County, Ohio, and at the office of A. W. Stoutenburg, Architect, at 26 E. Main Street, Norwalk, Ohio.

Copies of the documents may be obtained by depositing $5.00 with the Clerk, L. E. Snyder, or A. W. Stoutenburg, Architect, for each set of documents so obtained. The amount of the deposit for one set of documents will be refunded to each actual bidder who returns the plans and documents in good condition within ten days after the opening of bids. Two dollars will be refunded for each of all other sets of documents so returned. The Board of Education of the New Haven Rural School District reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive any informalities in bidding.

A certified check or bank draft, payable to the Board of Education of the New Haven Rural School District, or a satisfactory bid bond executed by the bidder and a surety company in an amount equal to not less than five per cent of the bid, shall be submitted with each bid. No bid may be withdrawn, after the scheduled closing time for receipt of bids, for at least thirty (30) days.

This notice supercedes notice to bidders published September 24, 1938, and signed L. E. Snyder, Clerk, The Board of Education of the New Haven Rural School District, New Haven, Huron County, Ohio.

Sorry for the 250,000 dogs in New York, most of which get no exercise except for a brief daily stroll while wearing a leash, a social worker asks for canine playgrounds. If this can be worked out, perhaps something could be done, too, for the thousands of kids who are leading a dog's life.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Long Time No See. By Harold Gray

GEE, OUR DOUGHNUT BUSINESS SURE IS GOOD- NEVER BEEN BETTER-AND MY TRUCKING BUSINESS IS BETTER THAN EVER, WITH GUDGE AWAY-
10-15-38
ONE GUY LIKE GUDGE CAN MAKE PLENTY TROUBLE FOR EVERYBODY, AND USUALLY DOES- I WISH HE'D STAY AWAY, WHERE-EVER HE WENT-
THAT'S TOO MUCH TO ASK, I'M AFRAID- HE'S JUST HAD A GOOD SCARE-
NO DOUBT HE GOT WIND OF HOW HE PLAN TO GET ME KILLED WENT WRONG AND FIGURED HE'D LIE LOW TILL IT ALL BLEW OVER-
SURE- THAT MUST BE IT- BUT WHAT CAN BE PROVED ON HIM?
NOT A THING- THAT'S JUST IT- HE'S BOUND TO REALIZE THAT- THE ONLY THING I CAN'T FIGURE IS WHY HE HASN'T COME BACK LONG BEFORE THIS-HMMMM- YEAH- THAT IS KINDA FUNNY, ISN'T IT?
HAROLD GRAY

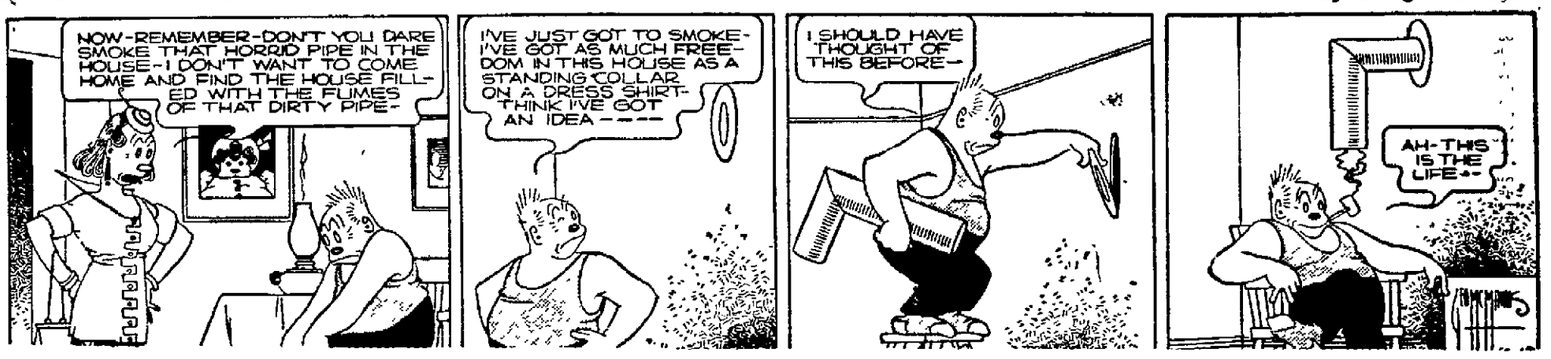
I'D LIKE TO TALK TO MR. HIGGLESBY, PLEASE!
YOU ARE! WHAT CAN I DO FOR YOU?
WELL, I'M MR. PIPER'S APPRENTICE, AND I—!
WHAT? YOU WORK FOR THAT RAPSCALLION AND HAVE THE COLOSSAL NERVE TO COME HERE? WHY--WHY---!
JUST A MINUTE, SIR! WHAT I'M HERE FOR IS TO YOUR ADVANTAGE-- NOT PIPER'S!
HM-M---IS THAT SO? WELL, SPEAK YOUR PIECE--- AND IT BETTER BE GOOD!

TAILSPIN TOMMY—On the Hunt! By Hal Forrest

CAPTAIN, I WOULD SUGGEST THAT YOU HEAD YOUR CRAFT TOWARD MIAMI AND CONFER WITH MY SUPERIORS THERE. THEY WILL INSTRUCT YOU WHAT TO DO ABOUT THE RANSOM NOTE
MEANWHILE, I'LL FOLLOW THE COURSE THAT THE PIRATES FLEW AWAY, AND TRY TO LOCATE THEIR HIDEOUT
WELL, IT DOESN'T LOOK TO ME AS THOUGH THE COAST GUARD AIR PATROL IS SUCH A HO-HUM JOB AFTER ALL, KEN!
IT HAS ITS MOMENTS, TOMMY
I THINK WE'D BETTER LOOK OVER SOME OF THESE SMALL KEYS BEFORE RETURNING TO MIAMI ON THE OFF CHANCE WE MAY FIND THE PIRATE BASE!
WE'RE IN FAVOR OF THAT, KEN!

BRINGING UP FATHER— By George McManus



NOW-REMEMBER-DON'T YOU DARE SMOKE THAT HORRID PIPE IN THE HOUSE-I DON'T WANT TO COME HOME AND FIND THE HOUSE FILLED WITH THE FUMES OF THAT DIRTY PIPE-
I'VE JUST GOT TO SMOKE- I'VE GOT AS MUCH FREEDOM IN THIS HOUSE AS A STANDING COLLAR ON A DRESS SHIRT- THINK I'VE GOT AN IDEA---
I SHOULD HAVE THOUGHT OF THIS BEFORE-

DEMANDS DEATH IN SEX-SLAYING

Indiana Prepares to Bring Confessed Strangler of Girl, 17, to Trial.

(By Associated Press)

FORT WAYNE, Ind. — State's attorneys indicated today they would demand the death penalty for Adrain H. Miller, 31, of Racine, Wis., confessed sex slayer of 17-year-old Alice May Girton of Winchester, Ind.

Detective Capt. John Taylor said Miller confessed smothering the pretty brunet business college student with a pillow and attacking her early Thursday in the rooming house here where both lived. She was found hours later, choked to death with her own silk underclothes.

Miller, who came here last June to study engineering in a technical school, was held without bond on a first degree murder charge.

The penalty for first degree murder in Indiana is death or life imprisonment. Prosecutor C. Byron Hayes said the charge would be changed to murder in commission of assault to make death in the electric chair mandatory.

The grand jury will study photographs of the crime as re-enacted by Miller for police.

THREE BROTHERS GET JAIL CELLS

Unable to Pay Court Costs, They're 'Sitting It Out'.

Three Mansfield brothers unable to pay the costs in their cases after they had been given suspended 10-day jail sentences by the court on charges of assault and battery were "sitting it out" in jail today.

The brothers are Leroy Ray, 22, Robert Ray, 26, and Luther Ray, 23, of Oakenwald avenue, who pleaded guilty before Judge G. E. Halbfleisch.

The men were arrested at their home by sheriff's deputies following an altercation in which Boyd Bossler, Woodville road, received a broken jaw when struck with an automobile crank.

Witnesses testified that the brothers attacked Bossler following an argument over the towing of his car.

MAN, 70, MISSING

Boy Scouts Join Police in Search; Fear Illness or Accident.

LOUDONVILLE—Boy Scouts today joined police in a search for George Moertz, 70, who left his home here yesterday noon and failed to return. He resides with his sister, Mrs. Edward Frangkeiser.

Police went to his farm to look for him last night but failed to find him. It was believed he may have met with an accident or had been taken ill and was unable to return home, authorities said.

THEATER

"Four Daughters."

The picture that Warner Brothers made for an ordinary, run-of-the-mine program feature and which has turned out to be a box office gold mine, will be offered at the Ohio for five days, starting today. "Four Daughters," with the three Lane sisters, Rosemary, Priscilla and Lola, and Gale Page, and two new masculine "finds," Jeffrey Lynn and John Garfield, is a homey, human story of happy, humdrum lives, based on Fannie Hurst's story, "Sister Act." Claude Rains, May Robson, Frank McHugh and Dick Foran are also in the cast.

* * *

"Straight, Place, Show."

The midnight matinee switches tonight to the Madison where a late show will be run off with the new feature for the first half of the week, "Straight, Place and Show" with the Ritz Brothers and a list of featured players. This is one of Damon Runyon's sports stories plentifully touched with comedy, romance and human interest. Phyllis Brooks is the girl who owns a race horse, Richard Arlen in love with her, and Ethel Merman carrying a torch for him. There's a panic, not to say pandemonium, in the paddock when the Ritz' arrive.

"Crime Takes a Holiday."

Jack Holt is a crusading prosecuting attorney in "Crime Takes a Holiday," at the Majestic Sunday and Monday, and stakes the life of an innocent man condemned to the electric chair, on his ability to clean up the town before the electrocution date. There is suspense when the time limit nears and things are still out of control. Marcia Ralston and Russell Hopton featured. The first of a new series of college stories, "Freshman Year," with a cast of newcomers, is the second attraction.

"Mr. Wong, Detective."

Another new series of pictures opens at the Park theater the first half of the week when "Mr. Wong, Detective" is shown there. The series will move around the detective that Hugh Wiley has created for Collier's magazine. Boris Karloff, who formerly did "horror" roles, plays the Oriental detective. This is a first-run picture in Mansfield. A romantic feature is Mary Carlisle and Buster Crabbe in "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi."

Perkins Proposes Commission to Mediate Labor 'War'

Not That It Matters

October Brings Beauty —And Political Wars; Burlesque of Classics

—By JANE WILLIAMS

OCTOBER, the Gorgeous Hussy, plays tricks on human beings as she flaunts her red and yellow skirts over hills and woods. She has a knack of luring them out into the open, blowing a smoky haze into their eyes and then reminding them of all the things they had planned to do with their lives—and hadn't.

There's nothing like a blue October haze over the scarlet sumac bushes to remind you that you once intended to write the Great American Novel; the crackle of dry leaves under foot and the pungent odor of October bonfires serve to remind the Tired Business Man that the years are slipping by while he's trying to make a living and that he's done none of the things he planned to do away back over the years. Under the spell of the Gorgeous Hussy as she flirts her mantle of Indian Summer, he becomes a bit conscious of his expanding waistline, and sighs as he admits that the years are catching up with him.

* * *

A CURL of blue smoke against a bronze October woods always reminds me that once I vowed I'd run away with the next gypsy caravan that came to town to camp in the hollow down by the river. Once, I ran away from home and hid in the willow trees along the river, to watch the gypsies at their evening meal and only the thought of how sad my mother would be kept me from asking them to take me with them. The smoke from their fires curled upward and thrilled me, and I could smell the meat steaming over the fire.

(I wasn't close enough to smell the camp and the gypsies. THAT was a disillusionment for later years!)

And so I suspect that my fondness for October steak-roasts is something of a throwback to that day in the willows by the river—I can always PRETEND that there are tents back of me, and wagons and horses behind the tents!

IN making a slap-stick comedy of "The Three Musketeers" with the unfunny Ritz Brothers as Athos, Porthos and Aramis, 20th Century-Fox believes it can lay all criticism by having an opening in which the Ritz Brothers get the gallant trio blotto and then masquerade as the Musketeers throughout the picture, free to burlesque the classic as much as they choose.

It's a very, very clever idea, and paves the way for Martha Raye to play Scarlet O'Hara or Patsy Kelly to play Little Eva.

Is it any wonder the motion picture industry has to put on million dollar campaigns to build up prestige?

"LEXINGTON Democrat" writes in to point out my error in giving William Ashbrook's address as Johnsville when it is Johnstown, O. Right you are, I caught it last Saturday after the paper was on the press, but it was too late to correct it.

So when you're writing to Bill to ask him to use his influence to keep the CCC at Mohican park, address it to Johnstown. And don't put off writing.

VOTERS in California will certainly be cutting out paper dolls and talking to themselves before the election is over, for it is doubtful if ever in history there has been a greater confusion of parties, policies and who-is-for-what.

They have (1) A Democratic nominee for the senate whose campaign issue is $30-every-Thursday and which is heavily frowned upon by the administration; (2) A Republican nominee for the senate who is backed by a man who was heartily advocated four years ago by Jim Farley and the president; (3) A Democratic nominee for governor who won't say what his attitude is on the weekly pension plan; and (4) A Republican nominee for governor who is running on the Townsend plan Senator Hiram Johnson only complicated the picture when he, as the Republican who left the ranks in 1932 to follow the President and the New Deal banner, came out this week and endorsed the Republican nominee for senator who has been bitterest in flaying the New Deal.

California Democrats and Republicans alike are in the same unstrategic position—it's hell if they do and hell if they don't.

R. M. of Coolridge Heights, whose name suggests he may be Canadian, takes me to task for a statement in last Saturday's column as to why the French language is taught in the schools of Quebec, maintaining that French is an official language of Canada.

Sorry, but my information comes from Dr. Allan Dafoe, a guardian of the Dionne quintuplets and from the Quebecers with whom I talked. English is the national language of Canada, even though the members of parliament from the province of Quebec deliver their addresses in French. As I said before Quebec simply refuses to be Anglicized and Canada makes the best of it.

As a matter of fact, the province of Quebec is almost an independent country in itself, for it operates under a peculiar Dominion privilege—it is guaranteed the right to conduct itself internally, especially as to religion and education, as it did before its conquest by the English. Therefore, French language is "official" only in Quebec.

Convict Mother of Starving Girl to Death

JURORS ORDER PRISON TERM OF 1-10 YEARS

Found Guilty of Failing to Give Food to Child Who Died In Tourist Camp.

(By United Press)

LINCOLN, Neb.—Mrs. Charles Vansickles, 52-year-old step-mother, wept in her jail cell today and said a district court jury which found her guilty of having starved her six-year-old step-daughter to death had erred.

She said she will ask for a new trial and, if it is denied, will appeal to a higher court.

The jury, after less than four hours deliberation, agreed late yesterday that she had been guilty of manslaughter in the death of Norma Jean Vansickles, her husband's daughter by a previous marriage. Judge E. B. Chappel deferred sentence for three days to allow time for her attorney to petition for a retrial. She faces a possible term of from one to 10 years in prison.

Husband Waits Trial.

Her husband, Charles, 30, is in jail, awaiting trial on the same charge. He is her fourth husband. He married her the day he proposed—in 1936, only a few weeks after she had gone to work for him as housekeeper.

Norma Jean died in a tourist camp southeast of Lincoln, Aug. 4. Witnesses testified that she and her sister, Alma Lee, 4, had appeared underfed when they arrived at the camp. The surviving child is being treated in a hospital for malnutrition.

County Attorney Max Towle, who prosecuted the case, charged that Norma Jean's death resulted solely from her step-mother's "criminal negligence."

He said Mrs. Vansickles had had money and a plentiful supply of groceries but had failed to feed the child properly and had refused her a mother's care and protection.

Jury, Officials Give Cash To Girl Who Figured In Trial

Repudiated by both parents, homeless, and without a relative to whom she could turn, 17-year-old Helen Hatfield of Shelby, suddenly found yesterday that it is not such a bad world after all, and today she was happily married to the sweetheart of her school days.

Besides, she had a wedding present of nearly $50 in cash.

When the world appeared darkest to Helen yesterday noon after her father, Harry Hatfield 38, had been sentenced to the penitentiary for betraying her, jury members and county officials contributed to her wedding fund and her sweetheart, Robert Burden, 21, of Lima, came out of a courtroom crowd to ask her to marry him.

The girl had appeared as the chief witness against her father who was convicted for incest. During the trial both her father and mother testified against her.

Made a ward of the county for the trial, Helen received $25 from the county welfare fund to add to her gift of nearly $25 from the jury. Judge C. H. Huston, Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott, Assistant Prosecutor Harold Lutz and others who heard the trial.

RE-ELECT SOILS PROGRAM STAFF

Townships Again Name Taylor as Chairman of County's Conservation Board.

Members of the Richland county soils conservation committee re-elected last night at a meeting of delegates from the county's 18 townships at the federal conservation office on East Third street.

G. L. Taylor, Washington township, who has headed the program since it went into operation three years ago, was re-elected county chairman. Other members of the committee are C. C. Till, Sharon township, and George Mentzer, Troy township.

Howard Stone, Washington township, was named secretary, and C. H. Morgan, Perry township, and L. B. Wilson, Springfield township, were chosen as alternates.

The committee will administer the federal soils conservation program which is due to get under way in the county soon after Nov. 1. Township meetings will be scheduled to outline the new program to farmers.

Work on the 1938 program will be completed within a month and the first checks for compliance with the soil building program are due to reach county farmers about Dec. 1, Taylor said.

BACK TO WORK TREK, RUSH OF IDLE DOLLARS BUOYS BUSINESS

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The bustle of men and money returning to work imparted vigor to the autumn recovery trend in business this week.

While factory whistles called workers back to jobs in automobile, steel and other industrial plants, Wall Street resounded with the stir of active security markets, buoyed by a rush of idle dollars to employment in stocks and bonds.

Stocks on the average rose to the highest level in more than a year. Bonds pursued a recovery course marked out at the end of September after the Munich four-power conference relieved money centers of immediate war fears. Copper, hides, rubber and other industrial raw materials were in demand at higher prices as manufacturing schedules were raised in expectation of continuing business improvement.

The whole financial and business scenery made a contrast with the fall in prices and industrial production last October.

Much of the driving force behind the rise of industrial barometers, it appeared, continued to come from the building field. The Associated Press weekly index of residential building rose to a new peak for recent years at 81.2 compared with 60.3 a year ago.

Heavy engineering awards, according to the "Engineering News-Record," ran ahead of comparable 1937 figures for the thirteenth consecutive week.

Nearly all sectors of the business front felt the forward drive.

T. B. CASES UP

County's Total for Year Hits 81 as 3 More Are Reported.

The total number of new cases of tuberculosis discovered in Richland county this year was boosted to 81 today as three more were reported at the monthly diagnostic chest clinic held yesterday at General hospital under the direction of Dr. T. L. Bliss of Akron.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner said that of the 24 suspects examined, three showed a positive test while the other 21 proved negative.

Of the total number of suspects examined 17 were from the city and seven were from various parts of the county.

Health department records show that 339 persons have been examined at the clinics this year and that 256 have shown negative tests.

PORT CRIPPLED

2,000 Tugboat Workers Strike; Steamers Stranded.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, today called 2,000 tugboat workers out on strike. Until it was settled, ocean liners could neither enter nor leave the port and garbage accumulated at the docks because garbage scows were involved.

Ryan said the operators had refused the union's demand for $15 a month wage increases for men in the lower brackets and $10 a month for higher salaried workers.

Up and Down THE STREET

A small camera, lost in the mountains of Switzerland, has just returned to its owner in Mansfield, none the worse for its experience. When Martha Smaltz, a teacher in the sight saving department of public schools was in Switzerland last summer, she had the camera with her. One day when she was about to make a trip up one of the peaks in the Alps on a sight-seeing trip, she had the camera with her. Later she missed it and remembered that she had left it on a bench at the foot of the mountain. She wrote to the police of the village, enclosing postage and a reward. The camera reached Mansfield a few days ago.

* * *

A Mansfield taxi driver is sure he has found the meanest Halloween pranksters in the youths who threw a life-like dummy in front of a speeding cab the other night. His two passengers in the rear seat were almost thrown into the windshield when he jammed on the brakes to keep from running over the limp form, the driver said. And his disposition was anything but sweet when he dragged the rag "man" out of the street and heard jeering laughs in the dark.

* * *

Although the first policemen's ball was held in Mansfield more than 50 years ago, the idea for the present series of dances was born in the minds of three "coppers" just four years ago. The committee, named to find a means of raising funds, wavered between a boxing show and a ball, finally deciding on the ball as an entertainment of wider appeal. The committeemen were Patrolman C. W. Kyler, Lieut. Carl J. Kalstein and Leroy Coffey, now Shelby chief of police.

Boys in the art classes at Senior high school do not profess to be experts in girls make-up and clothing, but have their own ideas as to how much make-up girls should use, and the kind of clothes they should wear. Expressing their opinions on this matter, they decided unanimously that the "average high school girl wears too much make-up when it isn't at all necessary."

FIRE ON DUCKS

Hunters Open 45-Day Bird Season on Water Fronts.

Ohio's biggest peacetime army, including a full regiment of Mansfield gun bearers, took to the marshes along Lake Erie and numerous inland lakes today for the annual hunt for ducks and geese.

As the 45-day season opened, hunters were cheered by reports from the conservation division that game was plentiful, even as far south as the Ohio river.

The conservation division warned nimrods to be sure and have a federal duck stamp before they ventured forth to the marshes. The stamps cost $1. Persons hunting without a stamp are subject to arrest. A regular Ohio hunting license also is required.

The bag-limit is 20 ducks in possession at one time. On geese the daily limit is five and 10 in possession. Wood ducks are on the prohibited list.

COMMITTEE OF 13 SUGGESTED TO END SCRAP

Labor Secretary, In Address At Columbus Convention, Sounds Peace Appeal.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Secretary of Labor Perkins proposed today creation of a 13-members commission to mediate the dispute between the CIO and the AFL.

She suggested that each organization choose five of its "trusted and experienced representatives" who in turn would select three disinterested persons. The representatives of the labor groups, she said, should have authority to bind their organizations to adhere to any agreement the commission reached.

Miss Perkins advanced her suggestion in an address prepared for a joint celebration of the 70th anniversary of the Order of Railway conductors and the 50th anniversary of its ladies' auxiliary.

1st Public Proposal.

It was the first public proposal from the administration of a concrete method for settling the rivalry between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization which began three years ago today.

For the past 10 days, however, there has been increasing administration pressure for the rival labor organizations to end their bitter fight.

President Roosevelt sent a message to Houston, Tex., convention of the A. F. of L. asking it not to close the door to peace with the CIO.

Subsequently, Secretary of Commerce Roper said the dispute was retarding economic recovery. Then, Elmer Andrews, wage-hour administrator, told the A. F. of L. convention that he "like millions of Americans," hoped labor would settle its internal difficulties.

Miss Perkins said the three disinterested persons to be on the commission should be "informed about labor matters and sympathetic to labor organization."

"If the ten can't agree on the public members, then some outside trusted person can be asked to select and appoint them."

FAIR ENOUGH!

Soviet Gives Impression She's Hiding Weaknesses Not Strength In Aviation

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—If Charles Lindbergh warned the British that the mysterious Russian air force was no good, he probably told the truth. Whatever the scientific worth of Lindbergh's experiments with a chicken heart in a tube of jelly, there can be no doubt that he does know planes and engines

He certainly was in a position to make comparisons between the Russian and German material and the skill of their flyers.

Maj. Al Williams, who also knows the difference between a German bomber and a mechanical June bug, confirms the information which Lindbergh is said to have passed on to the British petticoat government at Cliveden.

He says, in general effect, that a Russian still has no more feeling for a machine than a Spaniard has for a horse, and reports, in particular, his observation of one Russian ship which was their pride and joy, but, to the expert and exacting eye of a first-class military flyer, seemed to be composed of old wash boilers, broken-down egg beaters and tin.

* * *

He also was impressed by the excellence of the German equipment and personnel, and no mere accusation of sympathy for the Nazis will suffice to answer his findings. That accusation probably will be made because few people nowadays are willing to believe that any report of achievement, either in Russia or in the killer countries, is innocent of political bias one way or the other.

The Russians, though, have been acting in a manner to excite suspicion, and by their mysteriousness are prepared people to believe that they are hiding weakness rather than strength.

The Germans invited the French general in command of aviation to look at such of their equipment as they cared to show him in return for similar courtesy to one of their generals.

* * *

It is not unlikely that he came home to report that, just on the basis of the preparations which he had been permitted to inspect, the Nazis were fixed to give France and Britain a terrible hammering at the start of the war and again compel the Allies to come from far behind under the most punishing difficulty.

It is certain that they didn't show him any weakness, for they aren't weak, and it is not the practice of the strong to pretend to the flabby.

Nations strut their power, and the French are by nature so frugal, stingy and given to saving old bottles and bits of string that they doubtless are still flying a few old spit-and-paper kites, powered with clockworks, left over from the World war. They just can't throw anything away.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
